

Pro bono opportunity with NRC:

Designing Online Training Modules

NRC seeks to develop online training modules to visualise data related to our Monitoring and Evaluation (M&E) activities and we are looking for pro bono expertise to support the project.

M&E is a crucial element of all our humanitarian projects. However, it is an area that is little understood across the organisation. NRC has developed the relevant training materials and content. However, we are looking for creative ways to package the content into online learning modules, which would make the content more appealing and engaging to a wider audience. This project will contribute to NRC becoming a more data-driven and impact-oriented organisation.

Desired outcomes/deliverables of the project:

The desired outcome of this project is a series of educational videos/animations using pre-existing content. The training modules will be hosted on our intranet. We encourage the use of creative tools to get our key messages across.

Time frame:

The start date and duration of the project is flexible depending on the candidate. We would be grateful for any amount of support that can be offered, whether it is to develop one module or provide support for all of our content.

Qualifications and requirements:

We are looking for an individual or a team that have an understanding of creative software tools and adult learning.
